

WE NOMINATE

John Fairfield Sly, now entering upon his second quarter-century as a Princetonian and one of New Jersey's hardest-working political scientists. This week, with the entire world prayerfully watching the sessions of the United Nations Security Council and the apparently deteriorating situation in the Congo, the 67-year-old Sly returns to TOWN TOPICS' cover as the recipient of an African decoration held by only a handful of laymen in the Western World — Liberia's Star of Africa. The rank of Grand Commander of the Star was bestowed upon Sly in the Liberian capital of Monrovia.

While in the political sense Liberia, founded in the 1820's as the world's first Negro republic and traditionally dependent on American capital, has little in common with the aborning nations in Central Africa, it is significant that a Westerner has been singled out at this time for an honor a conservative government reserves for distinguished public service. Implicit in the high honor, which recognizes Sly's studies of the port of Monrovia and his efforts on behalf of Liberian students in this country, is an underprivileged people's appreciation of an American's deep interest in developing Africa, an interest shared by all too few American scholars.

Sly, who finds it difficult to understand why so few of his fellow social scientists have been so mildly concerned with the tremendous movement toward constitutional government in Africa (a process currently involving the creation of some 25 new constitutions) has seldom dwelt in "ivy halls." He has taught here at the University for the past 25 years and has also served on the faculties of Harvard and the Universities of California, Iowa and West Virginia.

A recent appointee of Mayor Male's to the Borough of Princeton's Planning Board, Sly has been an adviser to governors, and consultant to legislative groups and public commissions, in nearly a dozen different states. The appointive posts he has held in this state alone are indicative of his contributions to more effective government. Chairman since 1946 of the Commission on N. J. Tax Policy and a former Commissioner of the Port of New York Authority, he has been a member of the Metropolitan Rapid Transit Commission, Governor's State Budget Advisory Commission, Committee of Railroad Taxation, Commission in the Revision of the State Constitution, and Commission on Taxation of Intangible Personal Property.

New York-born, Iowa-raised and acting president of the University of West Virginia when he was called to Princeton in 1935, Sly continues to direct Princeton Surveys, or, more properly, the State and Local Government Section in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. This pioneering research unit, a permanent part of the University since 1939, endeavors to bring the results of research more directly into governmental operations and in the past 20 years has issued well over 200 reports, most of which have been designed for expression in public laws.

For meriting distinction in an area widely separated from his normal responsibilities and routine; for working for the solution of problems which have often been compounded by government's failure to face the facts; for promoting the understanding of government that is indispensable in a democracy; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

FOUR ROUNDS FOR ROME

To serve U.S. in Olympics.
Four residents of Princeton will go to Rome this month to serve the United States in various capacities as members of its Olympic Committee. The 15th Games in the modern series—since revival in Athens in 1896—will open August 25 and close September 11.

Secretary of the U.S. Olympic Committee, which he has served for a quarter-century, is Asa S.
Bushnell of 71 Palmer Square.
When not administering a segment of Olympic policy at the national level, Mr. Bushnell has a firm hand in much that goes on in the world of sports in New England and the Middle Atlantic States as commissioner of the multi-member Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Dr. Harry R. McPhee, 29 Regatta Row, heads the medical staff on the Olympic Committee.
Long-time member of the Department of Health and Physical Education at Princeton University, and physician for many Princeton football teams, Dr. McPhee has supervised the medical welfare of U.S. athletes at several previous Olympic Games.

Appointed as assistant chairman of the committee on food and housing for the 408-member U.S. squad is Irwin W. Weiss of 248 Morse Street. Active in athletics in many ways (a tonight football official, track coach, director of physical education in borough public schools), Mr.
Weiss is the first to go from here, flying by jet to Italy this Wednesday night. As the only school official in New Jersey named to the U.S. Olympic Committee, he will speak on the 1960 Games to school groups in various parts of the state on his return.

Appointed as a nurse on the U.S. staff is Miss Gertrude O'Neill, who serves throughout the year in that capacity at the University's McCosh Infirmary.

THE AUTO'S HERE TO STAY:
Water supply in Nassau Street's 15th century horse trough has finally been disconnected.
(Story this page.)

Zanfrini, 44 College Road, was head trainer at Squaw Valley, California, during the Olympic Games last winter.

Although residents of Princeton or members of the University have represented this nation in past Games, none qualified in 1960. Among those who reached the finals of the elimination rounds were Carl Brown, a fine hurdler whose home is at 28
Birch Avenue; Edward Thuermer of Lawrenceville and Nicholas Kovalakides, 212 Nassau Street, both record-breakers in their own colleges (Princeton and Maryland) with the javelin; and Richard Edmunds, a standout sprinter who was captain next year's Princeton track team.

END OF AN ERA

Horse Age Disappears. Official recognition of the fact that the horse is no longer an integral part of the Princeton business scene has come to Nassau Street this summer. The water supply in the horse trough has been turned off.
For more years than most Princetonians can remember—and undoubtedly dug well back into the last century, when Nassau Street's surface was dirt and hitching posts were the picturesque forerunners of parking meters—man and beast could quaff at the same oasis.

One side was for horses, in the form of a trough; the other, a fountain for their drivers or for passers-by. Now that the automobile age has come to stay, and horse traffic on Nassau Street is limited to an occasional sleigh in winter or an undergraduate's Hansom Cab, the demand for the trough has sloughed off.

Stagnant water being a breeding place for mosquitoes, the borough has taken steps to cut off the supply. Said Borough Engineer Arthur Brokaw in confirming the move:

"Not only have we yet to receive a complaint from any of the horses, but this is the only thing we've done in a long time about which we have had no complaints."

MCCROHAN, KNOWLES CITED
For 25 Years of Service, Lt.
Peter J. McCrohan of 278 Hamilton Avenue and Detective George J. Knowles of 252 Hamilton Avenue have been cited for completing 25 years of service with the Princeton Police Department. Mr.
McCrohan joined the force July 22, 1935, seven weeks later than Mr. Knowles who started his police career June 18, 1935.

Each was appointed a patrolman the following year. In March, 1963 Mr. McCrohan was appointed the Borough's first juvenile officer, a position he held for seven years. In January, 1955 he was promoted to sergeant and last December was advanced to lieutenant.

Mr. Knowles assumed the duties of a detective approximately three years ago. He plans to retire sometime before the end of the year.

A resident of Princeton all his life, Mr. McCrohan attended the old Princeton Preparatory School once located on the corner of Nassau and Snowden Lane. Upon completing his education he spent a year in the U.S. Merchant Marine before entering the police department.

Mr. Knowles is also a Princeton native but was raised in Trenton and Passaic. After graduating from the Hun School in 1925 he worked for a brief period as a cost accountant for the U.S. Rubber Company in New York City. In 1927, he joined the Marines, serving four years before he was discharged in 1931.

ROUND-UP

Despite a couple of typical steaming summer days, August is generally following the pleasant July pattern of temperatures averaging below normal. The thermometer hit 80 last Wednesday and again on Monday but for the four days in between, the maximum averaged well under 80.

One or more vandals entered St. Paul's School on Friday and ripped a water fountain off the wall, a first floor corridor and two classrooms sustained some damage from flooding, police report, adding that no trace of forced entry could be found.

Carmen Fasanello, 230 Moore Street, got his trousers, a wrist watch and $35 back on Sunday in a one-man treasure hunt. In his shop in work clothes when a call for a taxi was received, he changed so hurriedly that he tossed the trousers he was wearing on top of his cab and drove off. After delivering his passenger, he recalled his misplay, retraced his route in the dark and found pants, watch and money intact.

The Young Republican Club of Princeton is planning a block dance at the Witherspoon Street parking lot the evening of Friday, August 24. Some 50 demonstrators for the New Jersey Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy and the State Branch of

NEW BRIDGE BACKED
For Harrison Street. Support for a new and wider bridge across Lake Carnegie at Harrison Street was given this week in a letter from University President Robert F. Goheen to the governing bodies of Princeton's two municipalities.

Dr. Goheen stressed his belief that "the interests of the University and the interests of the community coincide" in the matter. He also emphasized his feeling that, while the need for a wider bridge is immediate, Harrison Street itself should not be widened to facilitate greater traffic flow. Residents of the area have been considerably alarmed over such a proposal.

The necessity for the proposed 206-A byway was also underscored in the President's letter, together with the development of the so-called "loop plan" which would create a major artery diverting traffic from U.S. 1 around Princeton proper to the north and west.

Because completion of such projects are "at least several years away," Dr. Goheen has urged "an interim and partial solution, which will ease the present situation on the central part of Nassau Street and Washington Road, and at the same time help to implement the long-range plan adopted by the Borough Planning Board in 1942." He suggested as the proper step now the development of improved, alternate north-south routes through the Princeton area, starting with Harrison Street.

His letter, made public at Tuesday night's meeting of Mayor and Council, continues:

"Specifically, with respect to the plans for Harrison Street, we at the University endorse the development (long considered) of a new bridge across Lake Carnegie at the foot of Harrison Street. We do not advocate widening Harrison Street, and in the long-range view would think it most undesirable, except for such adjustments as may be necessary at intersections.

"We advocate the new bridge

for two reasons: first, because the present structure, built in 1905 through the generosity of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, is not now adequate to handle locally-generated traffic, and second, because there must be an alternate north-south route as soon as possible if we are to avoid intolerable choking of present routes.

"To assist in the implementation of these views, we at the University have put before the elective officers of the several interested communities and of Mercer County three concrete offers which I wish here to reiterate:

"(1) To contribute financially toward the cost of constructing the new Harrison Street Bridge when engineering studies have been completed and costs determined more exactly.

"(2) To develop a right of way west of Harrison Street (between Western Way and Hartley Avenue) so that residents on the west side of Harrison Street in this area may gain access to the rear of their properties for off-street parking.

"(3) To contribute necessary rights of way on the West Windsor side of Lake Carnegie in order to facilitate the construction of that portion of the loop plan which calls for a connection from lower Harrison Street to Washington Road.

"It is undoubtedly true that a proper bridge will increase the flow of traffic on Harrison Street. As early as 1948 this possibility was foreseen. With the continuing growth of population in the Princeton area and the already heavy volume of through and local traffic, it seems only reasonable that residents in the vicinity of Harrison Street should share with other members of our communities some of the burden and responsibility of improved traffic circulation for the benefit of all residents in the Princeton area.

"The University itself is a major property holder in the Harrison Street area and has a further interest in the area because of the many members of our family who reside there. On the day the 206-A byway is open to traffic, the University will join in a request that through truck-traffic henceforth be debarricaded from Harrison Street."

In other action, the governing body set next Tuesday at 8 p.m. as the time for considering a proposed variance to the zoning ordinance which would permit a 64-unit garden-apartment on North Harrison Street. The Zoning Board has approved the variance, while a telephone poll of members of the Planning Board this week showed majority agreement.

Four residents of the community were approved for membership in the Fire Department. Elected to the Hook and Ladder Company were Donald L. Healy, Henry Miller and Norman R. Fowler, Jr., while Norman F. Servis will join Engine Co. No. 1.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED
In King's Court Case. Paul Curran of 27 Madison Street was arraigned this week before Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. on a charge of embezzlement. He has been held in $1000 bail to await Grand Jury action.

The complainant is Norman Aaronson, proprietor of King's Court on Witherspoon Street, the restaurant where Mr. Curran was manager at the time the alleged irregularities occurred. Of $1007 which the defendant is charged with having kept for himself in accepting payments to the establishment, he is credited by Mr. —Continued on Page 4

SEWERS OCCUPY TIME

At Township Committee. The Township Committee spent a majority of its hour and a half meeting Tuesday night dealing with the problems of sewers. It held a public hearing on and approved one line; introduced ordinances to build two others and discussed the timetable for the construction of the pumping station at Rosedale Road and Stony Brook.

Of prime importance was the Rosedale Road - Galbreath Drive sewer project, which had generated so much opposition at previous sessions. The sewer, shortened to a mere 300 feet on Rosedale Road was approved by the Committee after a public hearing at which only one opponent appeared.

The lone objection came from Mr. and Mrs. John W. Brown of 10 Galbreath Drive East, represented by Reeves Hicks. They claimed that the proposed sewer would not benefit them, noting that it was being extended to serve a property owner on Rosedale Road who cannot build a septic tank.

Ordinances Introduced. Other sewer projects considered included those for a $14,600 line on Mountain Avenue and a $5,700 line on Prospect Avenue. The committee had received petitions from the property owners to benefit from the sewers at its last session and introduced ordinances
Tuesday night.

Committee also indicated its intention to move ahead quickly with the proposed pumping station at Rosedale Road and Stony Brook, probably introducing an ordinance at its meeting of August 26, with bids to be received at the following session. An ordinance to cover the construction of a feeder line in the station from Pardee Circle will also probably be introduced soon.

In other action, the municipality's governing body held a public hearing on an ordinance to acquire a 50-foot strip of land running between Witherspoon and John Streets, to be combined with the Community Gardens property when it is obtained. Final action on the ordinance was delayed until the 23-acre Community Gardens tract is actually in the Township's possession, which is expected to be some time this fall.

Committee also heard a letter from residents of Wheatthief Lane objecting to the flooding of Harry's Brook; awarded a contract to the Sinclair Refining Company of Monclair for the supply of gasoline for Township vehicles; reduced and extended the bond for subdivision improvements of Albert Salzman; and heard that a brief resume of its own actions in the first half of 1960 had been prepared for Township residents.

week in Princeton's two municipalities, but none of them involved serious injuries. Perhaps the greatest damage was done when Bernard N. Riskin's sports car skidded 196 feet and piled into a tree on Mercer Road on Sunday morning.

The 32-year old Mr. Riskin of 22 Royal Oak Road, Nassau Estates, was taken to Princeton Hospital, where he was treated for multiple contusions and a lacerated right elbow. The car, which sustained "considerable damage," according to Township
Police, had to be towed away.

In the Borough, Trygve Knutsen, 49, of Carter Road, has been charged with drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident after hitting a car parked on Bayard Lane Saturday evening. Mr. Knutsen was spotted but not apprehended by a member of the Township police force, according to Borough Police.
They gave chase and finally caught him.

Other accidents included two on August 3, both involving only minor damage. In the early afternoon, the car of Mrs. Victoria Schulberg, 45, of 31 Scott Lane, rolled backwards 125 feet to damage a fence at 15 Vandewater Avenue. She was charged with failing to set the car's hand brake.

"KATE" TO CUT CAPERS
In Players' Production, "Kiss Me, Kate," the musical version of "Taming of the Shrew," will be offered by the University Players as its final production of the season. The Cole Porter hit will open next Tuesday for a two-week run.

Sara Rhodes will star in the dual role of the actress, Lilli Vanessi, and the shrewish young beauty, Kate. An opera star, Miss Rhodes appeared as Mme. Dubonnet in last year's production of "The Boy Friend."

Returning from the "Triangle Club's European tour to stage "Kiss Me, Kate," will be Milton Lyons, Anita Lori and Richard Cumming, both of whom participated in "The Boy Friend," will serve as choreographer and musical director, respectively.

The plot of "Kate" involves the backstage life of the principal actors in a version of the Shakespearean comedy, and as such offers a good deal more than a straight musical remake of "The Taming of the Shrew." Featured songs include "So In Love," "Wunderbar," "Were Thine That Special Face," "Always True to You in My Fashion," and "Brush Up Your Shakespeare."

Reservations may be made with the University Players, WA 4-3539. As in the past, tickets for the Monday evening performance (August 22) will be at two for the price of one.

BUCKS PLANS COMEDY

Ruth Chatterton to Star. A new play by Nellie Child will begin its two-week run at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, Monday, with Ruth Chatterton, Conrad Nagel and Pert Kelton playing the leading roles.

Miss Chatterton, a stage and film star of long standing, returns to the Playhouse after a ten-year absence. Four of her novels were published during that period. Her new vehicle deals with those who prove that "after fifty, friendship's nifty," and that age has its own charm.

Mr. Nagel is also a veteran in many areas of entertainment. Pert Kelton, a comedienne, was last seen on Broadway in "Music Man" and "Greenwillow." A non-musical role will be taken by Ethel Smith, an organ virtuoso and recording star.

Others in the cast include David Hunt, Nat Burgin, Louis Girard, Neil Harrison, Laurence Watson and Tommie Baxter. Jack Rabbay, who directed a cycle of plays by Arthur Laurents off-Broadway, will stage this production.

The final performances by the Association of Producing Artists, a touring repertory company, will be given through Saturday.

COMING TO NEW HOPE:
Ruth Chatterton will begin two-week run Monday in "Happy Ending," a new play opening at Bucks County Playhouse.

Shaw's "Man and Superman" will be presented this Thursday and Friday, with the musical version of Schnitzler's "Affairs of Anatole" scheduled for Saturday matinee and evening performances.

MUSICAL OFFERED

"Plain and Fancy Opens. A musical comedy with a setting in the Amish country of Pennsylvania is on view at the Lampbr-ville Music Circus. "Plain and Fancy" will run nightly through Sunday.

Shirley Conway is cast in the role she held in the Broadway production, and played also in London. Miss Conway has appeared in "Fal Joey" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," as well as in an Australian tour of "Auntie Mame," from which she has recently returned.

Bob Roman, Ann Vivian and Marie Crittenden are others in principal roles of "Plain and Fancy." Music was by Harry Hague, lyrics by Arnold Horwitz and Joseph Stein wrote the book.

LITTLE THEATRE TO OPEN

In PCD Auditorium. The Little Theatre program of three one-act plays opens this Thursday at Princeton Country Day School, and will continue through Saturday. The plays being given are Synge's "Riders to the Sea," concerning an Irish family whose men are destroyed by the sea; Shakespeare's "Pyramus and Thisbe," a farcical play within the fifth act of "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; and O'Neill's "Ile," a story of conflict between a man's pride in his livelihood (whaling) and love for his wife.

Mainstay of this production is James Thorpe, who is not only director and producer of all three plays, but also designer of the sets and lighting. He is assisted by Barbara Alden, who is responsible for the costumes and the choreography, and by an enthusiastic group of young players who are eager to meet the challenge they have presented to themselves.

In Second Year. The Little Theatre was formed last year by several former Junior University Players. They presented at that time four one-act plays in the Unitarian Church.

This group is filling a gap which has existed too long in the Princeton theatre scene. Outside of the various school productions, there has never been an opportunity for boys and girls of this age to do any concentrated work

News Of The Theatres

In the theatre. The University Players can offer them very little work, other than the most menial tasks, and the children's theatre efforts are scarcely challenging enough for those 15-20 years old.

If this project were to receive the backing that other Princeton groups do, important steps might be made toward the re-establishment of an enthusiastic and polished community theatre such as the Community Players in the days of the A. Munro Wade and the late P. Mackay Sturges. Until that time, the Little Theatre and others like it will seek to make their impression in spite of inadequate facilities and lack of funds.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Bells Are Ringing (August 10-16) suffers from few of the shortcomings usually encountered from stage to screen. Credit for this fine adaptation of the Broadway musical hit of a few seasons back goes to everybody in general but to Judy Holliday in specific. Miss Holliday, for whom the original show was practically custom designed, is back as the delightful and gay answering service telephone operator.

In addition to Miss Holliday, who needs very little help, the movie version of "Bells Are Ringing" had services of the excellent producer-director team of Arthur Freed and Vincente Minnelli, who combined for their joint venture since "Gigi." The transition from stage to screen has also been ably assisted by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, responsible for the book and lyrics for the show, who have provided some fresh material for the movie.

On the acting side Dean Martin appears as the playwright with whom Miss Holliday starts her romance-by-wire ("It's a Perfect Relationship") and who finally prompts the spontaneous "I'm Going Back." Members of effective supporting cast include Fred Clark, as the producer; Edie Foy Jr., as the gambler using the answering service as a "front"; Jean Stapleton, as the answering service head; and Bernie West, as the singing dentist. Recommended.

From the Terrace (August 17-23) is little more than an overly long, second-rate novel transformed into an overly long, second-rate movie. The tale of marriage for money followed by marital infidelity begins at an agonizingly slow pace and is still in second gear at the end, a good 14 minutes later. In short, the changes made by screenwriter Ernest Lehman and producer-director Mark Robson in John O'Hara's novel haven't significantly aided the overall effect.

The hero, Alfred Easton (Paul Newman), still comes home from the war (only it's World War II rather than World War I, as it was in the book) to an unhealthy family situation, finding his mother (Myrna Loy) a drunk and his father (Leon Ames) as overbearing as ever. He deserts his Pennsylvania background for the big city and its attendant society. —Continued on Page 8

IT'S NEW To Us

MR. A'S BACK
At Hay and Clover. The inventiveness of Bill Atkinson is a well that never seems to run dry. Six collections a year come from his drawing boards, each one a harmonious grouping of casual clothes with just the right blending of restraint and dash. There's a new one now at Hay and Clover (formerly Mary Chapin's) and we suggest that you look at it with late summer and the whole of autumn in mind. In this "Harvesters" collection, Atkinson presents for the first time a group of neoclassics; that is, a group of one piece dresses which have the same general line as the separates he does so well.

These dresses have been executed in batik, bandanna cloth, paisley and patchwork to capture the flavor of early America, when indigenous design was often blended with exotic patterns brought back from the far east by clipper ships.

A wallpaper print, for example, has a touch of the east in its color and design. It's made with a soft turn-over collar, a straight skirt and long sleeves.

Throughout the collection of one-piecers and into the separates there is continuity of design: three - quarter - banded sleeves, an open, stand-up man's shirt collar, straight skirts or skirts with full, unpressed pleats. One dress that exhibits all of these characteristics, and chooses the full skirt, comes in a deep, flat turquoise which Mr. A. calls "shadow blue," and a taupe which he calls "tumbleweed."

Another dress departs from the norm to carry a shawl collar and short sleeves. It's a bandanna print in deep wine or navy with wide bands of solid color trimming the edges.

One of the most startling dresses is a white embroidered muslin with flaring mandarin collar, full elbow - length sleeves and a straight skirt. No filling the sila in that one! (See box, this page).

In the separates, you'll find a "range shirt" with a gently rolled little collar, long slim sleeves and solid color (wabout or shadow blue). A smoked shirt with short banded sleeves comes in the same colors. Wear with these an easy flared skirt in tumbleweed or shadow blue.

"Ribbons" is the name of the print used for a shirt whose yoke plunges in a deep "U" in back. There are shirtwaist sleeves and collar. Mr. A's model wears it with a full "dancing skirt" in matching ribbon print. With any of these, you can wear a wheat-colored linen duster, straight as a stalk and neat as a newly-mown field.

KNIFE AND FORK

Join the Club. LeVake-Reid's jewelry shop, asks you to consider the possibility of starting your silver pattern this fall. If you already have enough forks,

Bringing in the Sheavass

Bill Atkinson has a new collection at Hay and Clover called "Harvesters." It's a group made out of such countrified fabrics as bandanna cloth, paisley, patchwork and batik. (The batik was brought over from Java by your great-grandfather who manned a clipper ship.)

The things we like most about these new clothes is the promotion that goes with them. (Well, of course, the clothes themselves are magnificent, as always, but we take that for granted.)

They are designed "for everything," Mr. A. says. In his bag-paper brochure, You wear them for walking through a wheat field, gathering grapes (the juice won't show on a dark print), or, heaven preserve us, "filling a silo." For this, we suggest a charming skirt in "Ensign tan", "Pig green" or "Siskin milk blue."

you might start a silver pattern for some worthy fall bride of your acquaintance.

In any case, you have LeVake-Reid's silver club to fall back on. Choose the pattern. Take home with you four, six, eight or 12 place-settings and pay for them at the rate of one place-setting per month. (This comes to a minimum of about $30 a month. Some will go as high as $80 a month.)

You have a tremendous selection, of course; in fact, LeVake-Reid estimates that there are 200 patterns to choose from, which is enough to drive any woman shopper out of her mind. Tiffany, Gurnham, Towle, Jensen, Kirk, Lunt, Reed and Barton, International, Heilmann, Steiff - that's the LeVake-Reid gallery, and you're invited to browse until you drowse.

After you've bought four place-settings, by the way, you get a silver chest free. And one initial is engraved free on each piece.

The same club arrangement applies to china, too. From the patterns offered by Wedgwood, Royal Doulton, Royal Worcester, Haviland, Castleton and Franciscan, you choose the one you like best and pay for one place-setting per month.

We'll come around for dinner September 1.

finally marrying the beautiful daughter of a large corporation executive. But the nouveau-riche Newman and his wife (Joanne Woodward) don't get along. She begins to play fast and loose with other men, taking pains to make sure her husband is aware of this, while he finds true love in the arms of a sultry, limpid eyed beauty from a Pennsylvania coal town (Ina Balin). It's all a very standard story, and not particularly moral.

While all of the acting is relatively competent, Miss Woodward should be singled out for her excellent representation of the type of girl not to marry. The production is in CinemaScope and Deluxe color.

THE GARDEN

Murder, Inc. (August 14-16) proves that the good, old fashioned cops and robbers melodrama is still very much alive. For plain excitement, the fast-moving tale of murder, beautiful women and the law is way ahead of some of its less traditional modern counterparts. Just as television's "Untouchables," it manages to recreate the atmosphere of a bygone era — not the roaring twenties this time, but the depressed thirties — by coming historical fact with Hollywood fiction.

The locale is Brooklyn; the chief villains, Louis "Leopke" Buchalter (David J. Stewart) and Ake "Kid Twist" (Peter Falk, sometime University Players star). A young couple (Stuart Whitman and May Britt) are the semi-donkey victims of the gang. The law is represented by Henry Morgan as Burton Turkus, the assistant district attorney who finally "got" the notorious Lepke, and Simon Oakland as the conscientious cop.

An adaptation of the book of the same title by Sid Feder and Burton Turkus, the movie was recently directed by Earl Elstein and Stuart Rosenberg. Miss Britt and Whitman ably supply sex and emotion, as required. Both Stewart and Morgan are efficient in their portrayals of the leading "bad" and "good man," respectively, while Falk is frightening enough as Brownsville's outstanding butcher. Although in CinemaScope, the film understandably sticks to the more conservative medium of black and white. Color would only detract from the harshness of it all.

one of the new TV snack tables at The Cummins Shop, assuming the good taste and informality of the host. These tables go beyond the usual TV-needing-kind to stand on their own four folding legs.

They have brushed brass legs and a narrow brushed-brass rim which goes around the top. The supports are at the side, which means that you can sit comfortably with your legs under the table and not wrapped around a center bar which keeps beating your shins.

ORGANIZATION VICTIMS: May Britt and Stuart Whitman fall prey to the Brooklyn mob of "Leopke" Buchalter in Murder, Inc., now showing at the Garden. Following the final performance of this film Saturday night, the theatre will close for three weeks, to reopen after Labor Day.

The tops are Formica in various stages of dress. One is walnut, one birch, one mahogany. There is a "leather" top in dark brown, black or ivory. Gold stars embellish the black and ivory tops, and a gold eagle preens himself on the brown leather one. (That brown leather table with its golden eagle would be an adornment to anybody's study, just as an extra table.)

Price on these is $4.95 each. Incidentally, they fold up with the decorative tops facing outward, so that they look like fire-screens.

The Lenox people in Trenton manage to make the journey up to Princeton frequently enough to provide the Cummins Shop with new accessory china pieces from time to time.

At the moment, the shop is delighted with a pair of open salts, shaped like little swans, and molded in pure creamy white. Buy them, boxed, for $5.95 a pair. A new twin relish dish in white, without the characteristic Lenox gold piping, is made like a pair of leaves, joined by a white stem which serves as a handle.

The leaf pattern comes again in a flaring vase and in a wide, generous leaf sauce boat. A little pitcher, with full bottom and narrow top, lets the leaves fall where they may and stays with its own simple fluted design.

A salt and pepper pair carry a very narrow gold or platinum band around the narrow rim, just before the wide flare downward for the base, and the narrow flare upward for the little top.

A new candlestick with the same trick of flaring upward from a circular base, has a fluted design and a gold rim.

Later in the day, a car driven by Mrs. R. M. Herberg of 118 Library Place struck that of Dr. John Henderson, 53, of the Princeton Pike, at the corner of Broadmead and Western Way. Both cars suffered minor damage.

Paul E. Curran, who only recently had his stolen Corvette fished out of a water-dug quarry, failed to negotiate a turn on the Great Road early Thursday morning, damaging both the car and the property along the road. Mr. Curran, who lives at 25 Madison Street, has been charged with being an unlicensed driver and careless driving.

Also during the week, Mrs. Elizabeth Bordach sought slight damage when the radiator cap blew off her car on Maple Street Friday night. While pulling over to the curb, she hit the rear fender of a car owned by Pete Dallman of 20 Maple Street.

NEW CHAIRMAN APPOINTED
For Physics Department, Dr. Walter Bleakney, a prize-winning authority on ballistics, has been appointed chairman of the Department of Physics at Princeton University. According to an announcement this week by Robert F. Goheen, President of the University, Dr. Bleakney will succeed Dr. Allen G. Shenstone, who had been chairman of the department since 1950.

A full professor at Princeton for the past 16 years, Dr. Bleakney received a Joint Army-Navy Certificate of Merit for distinguished service in World War II in the field of terminal ballistics. During the war he also served as head of the Princeton Ballistic Project, as a research scientist for the National Research Council in ballistics and as a consultant in ballistics for the Army, Navy and Atomic Energy Commission.

A member of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Bleakney has concentrated in the fields of fluid dynamics, shock waves, atomic scattering, and nuclear phenomena. He was instrumental in founding Princeton's Shock Wave Laboratory, the first research center of its type in the United States.

Dr. Bleakney is a graduate of Whitman College and earned his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota. He came to Princeton in 1930 as a National Research Fellow, joining the faculty two years later as an instructor.

He was promoted to assistant professor in 1935, associate professor in 1938 and to professor in 1941. He formerly held the Cyrus Fogg Brackett Chair in Physics. In addition to his teaching and research, Dr. Bleakney has published more than 50 technical papers.

FOUR LOSE LICENSES

In Traffic Violations. The names of four Princeton area residents are included in the list of those whose licenses have been revoked for a period of 30 days for traffic violations.

Losing their driving privileges for speeding were Robert W. Burnham, 31, 157 Witherspoon Street; Evelyn Saldick, 31, 24 Randall Road; and Samuel K. Hunt, Jr., 19, 85 East Prospect Street, Hopewell. Losing his license under the point system for a 30-day period was Arthur V. Shannon, Jr., 23, of 28 Olden Lane.

State Maps Available

The 1960 State Highway Department road maps are "spoking like hot cakes," a spokesman for the Department said this week. More than 100,000 of the colorful, booklet-type maps have been distributed since June 15, he reported.

This figure represents one half of the number of maps that were printed. The new map, designed for the motorist, is of larger scale than most. It is printed in four colors and is divided for easy reading into five sections which form a handy folding booklet. Metropolitan areas are shown in large scale and a complete index makes it easy to locate all New Jersey.

Bathing, camping, fishing, hunting and picnic areas are identified on the maps, as are areas of historical interest. Copies of the new map may be obtained by addressing a postal card to "Highway Maps", P.O. Box 555, Elizabeth, N.J.

Delegates and alternates of Post 76, American Legion, have been registered for the 11th annual convention of Mercer County Legionnaires. The meeting is scheduled for August 20 at the Post 31, Legion Home.

The convention will select a new County Commander and staff for 1960-61. State and National offices will be endorsed in other convention business.

Nathaniel McKee, past County Commander and Past Commander of Post 76, has been endorsed for the office of State Vice Commander by the delegates of Post 76. In other business, the convention will debate the full program for the coming year. Past members who are not delegates are urged to attend the convention, and may register at the convention site for a fee of $3.00. Food and refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the convention's formal business.

Delegates from Post 76 are Ernest F. Drake, Theodore Maple, Norman Fowler, Henry Frank, Eric Jungberg, Nathaniel McKee, and Henry Robertelli. Alternates are William Birch, Raymond Breece, Marine Peraras, William Haupt, Thomas Mylotte, Alexander Proccacino and Leonard Solomon.

FOUR FINED

In Traffic Court, Miss Judy Kellogg, 19, of 210 Elm Road was fined $15 by Magistrate Theodore T. Tans, Jr. for failing to yield the right of way at an intersection.

In other cases, $15 fines were given to Steven Hinds, 18, 227 John Street, for a noisy muffler and Freddie W. Darke, 16, of 61 Laurel Road for no driver's license. For an improper display of plates, William E. Detwiler of 38 Pardee Road was fined $10.

News Of The THEATRES

"SIX CHARACTERS" UNEVEN
Play'ra Production Good, Luigi Pirandello's highly-touted "Six Characters in Search of an Author" opened Monday at Murray Theatre in an able University Players production, directed by Dale Bell. The scene, a bare stage, comes to life slowly with the arrival of various actors from the audience of the accompaniment of stagehand action.

Before long, the lights go out, and when they come on again, the stage population has been increased by six characters, looking for an author to give complete expression to their feelings. They have been left in limbo by their playwright, and must find a stage.

The development of this promising theme comes slowly and haltingly through the first two acts. We learn of the anguish and remorse of the father, played by Chester Doherty, over the treatment he has accorded his family.

The humility and shyness of his wife, which at first attracted him, become boring through the years. He encourages her to introduce another, equally shy, who has died shortly before the play opens, leaving her with two children. There is a son by the first marriage, who was raised away from his parents.

The father's exposition of his feelings and the reasons for his actions never jell, but the author's spokesman makes sumptuously clear the ultimate human predicament: Life seldom comes into focus, and reasons are elusive. Mr. Doherty does very well by his character, particularly in the third act in his statements on reality and illusion.

The Final Predicament. In creating a play about creating a number of paradoxes with no solutions, because human life evidently intrudes on his consciousness in this way.

Among the characters who can only be portrayed by actors for this reason is the stepdaughter (Maria Tucci) whose agony is magnified many times in the recreation of the crucial scenes of her life. This agony is ever-present and never fades. Miss Tucci sustains her high-pitched role magnificently, and her unflinching energy carries her through in fine style.

Ethine Battis, as the mother, has a somewhat stereotyped role, a situation made worse by an unimaginative costume of deep mourning. The part does not come across, and we find and leave her engulfed in grief, whose causes she does not understand. The part of the eldest son is played by Sylvester Ciccalo, is only adumbrated. Here, the author has again made use of the play's structure to leave much unsaid. There is a great deal said about the character of a person from the inside, and when that character is fenced in by his own personality, we learn only a little about him from the outside. The "slice of life" technique has its limitations.

The remaining two roles of the six are taken by Peter and Wendy Battis. They never speak, and add to the horror of the situation through frightened looks alone.

*Construction Interesting By switching back and forth between the scenes played by the "characters" and the outside stage, Pirandello has created intriguing incongruities which are not fully exploited by the Players.

The second act in particular presents a confusing, rather than striking, scene, because the changes of pace and mood are too quick. By the third act, the "characters" have created and sustained a mood which captivates the audience. This mood is abruptly and theatrically broken by a good surprise ending.

On the "stage" side, Francis Dux does a superb job as the director, who gives the characters a partial hearing and does his best to translate their agonizing reality into acceptable theatrical illusion. Mr. Dux has the gift of turning a stance into a gesture and he uses his form to utmost advantage. This gift is perhaps overworked in the current production, although it added immeasurably to last week's "The Lesson."

The remaining members of the company fall into well-defined grooves, each complete with individual mannerisms. The only criticism might be that their presence intrudes too much on the exposition of the six characters: every smirk and exchange of glance is magnified on Murray's small stage.

Well Worth Seeing. The entire cast, right down to the two-line parts, knows its job. They move with ease, and handle their roles with complete confidence. The touches of comic relief, which occasionally overpower the play, are on the whole well handled, and it is fascinating pastime to watch the scenery changes with the curtain up.

The Players production, which will run through Saturday, is well worth a trip to Mr. Jay Theatre, and follows the company's well-chosen path of stimulating theatre.

the unit, told the group that he was pleased with their performance at Camp Drum.

He said the company had an excellent chance of receiving the battalion's highest performance rating and pointed out that Company D consistently received higher ratings than the other companies. Ratings are given by an army inspector and cover such categories as appearance and personal hygiene, military courtesy and discipline, unit food service, unit supply and maintenance, and communications training and operations.

For three members of Company D this summer marked their 13th training session. They are Master Sgt. Anthony Carnevale, Master Sgt. Rudolph Schuler and Sgt. First Class Frank Cuomo, Jr.

This year the National Guard units bivouaced for the entire 18 days and barracks were utilized for shower purposes only. The convoy movement to Camp Drum was made during daylight hours, while the movement to home stations was an all-night march.

Facklerites Fight, Then Agree. After a bitter fight which led as far as the courts, the dispute over the destiny of the trees lining Fackler Road appears settled to the satisfaction of both the Lawrence Township Committee and those living along the road. As it stands now, the residents have saved their trees and the Township has gotten its improved road.

Failing to save the trees from a road widening project in two appearances before the Committee, the aroused residents last Thursday obtained a temporary injunction to halt work on the road from Superior Court Judge John B. Wick of Camden. Then, on Saturday morning at the site of the project, the two sides came to an agreement.

Involved have been some 80 trees of the mock orange variety bordering the mile-long road running between Princeton Pike and Route 206. The Township insisted that the roadway needs widening and repaving, to the detriment of the trees if necessary. While not opposing the widening as such, the 12 families on Fackler Road objected to anything which would harm the trees.

Neither group entirely accomplished its original aim under Saturday's agreement. The Fackler Road residents have not saved all their trees, since about eight will still come down, and the Township will not have quite the road it originally planned, since certain modifications have been made to leave most of the trees standing. But both sides are happy enough with this arrangement: The Township plans to go ahead with the road and the res—

Objections Before Committee. Originally a subject of discussion when the Committee was considering the project last winter, the road widening flared into the open again at a meeting on July 27. At that time, the residents objected vociferously to the project, claiming that the Committee had backed down on an agreement of last winter not to disturb the trees. As a result of their objections, work was temporarily stopped.

When the Committee decided to go ahead with a modified plan that would save most of the trees but still eliminate some, the residents again objected, this time at a regular Committee meeting last Wednesday. The Committee again failed to go along with the residents, and their lawyer, S. S. Souler, obtained the injunction.

Under the final agreement, the road has been juggled and a few standard requirements waived so as to preserve the maximum number of trees. This is basically the plan presented earlier by Township engineer William Stratton, with some modifications allowed by the state.

The objecting residents have included E. M. Carnarius, George Wilson, E. W. Hare, Henry M. Bach Jr., Robert Garber, Robert Spofford, Bertrand Mills, W. Cedric Meyers, Richard Whitney, Mrs. B. H. Jackson and Donald Jennings. Handling the Township's case were Mayor Owen Healey, Committeemen Charles

'THROUGH THE DARK OF NIGHT'...

Nowhere in town will you find such freshness . . . such dazzling variety . . . as here in our produce department. For instance, our corn, picked in the early evening, is cooled for an hour in the waters of a spring-fed lake on the farm to take out the field heat, packed in mesh bags to allow air circulation, and rushed to our market during the night. Your selection is made only 12 hours after it's picked.

Every luscious fruit or vegetable is just hours away from its dawy-cool bed . . . what could be more fresh? And every last one has our personal word guaranteed!

PLAYGROUNDS CONTINUE

With Extensive Activities. A full slate of activities filled Princeton area playgrounds last week. Twenty-five children participated in a treasure hunt at the Harrison Park playground last week, with Chris Wright discovering the prize, a large watermelon.

Karen Wright, the only girl on the Harrison softball squad, came up with the week's most unusual effort. She fashioned an unusual triple play against the Grover Avenue team. Karen caught a fly ball, tagged a runner advancing from first base toward second and stepped on second to triple off a runner who had headed for third base.

James Briner, director of the Harrison Park Playground, announced a schedule of events last week which included an inter-playground field day on August 27, a Water Show on August 28, and Mr. and Miss Harrison Park contests on the 30th and 29th respectively. These last two events are for children under ten. Steve Cohen copped the ping pong tournament, Doug Hoffman won the softball tournament and Glenn Johnson won the horseshoe pitching contest, while the team of Glenn Johnson, Molly Tess, Gregg Johnson, Ricky Goetz, Mike Cevera, Dave Patlavich and Steve Alexander won the water scavenger hunt at Littlebrook playground.

Riverside playground will be the scene of a carnival on Aug. 24, Arnold Saffran, director of that play area, announced last week. During the past week Riverside deflected Grover Avenue 21-12 in volleyball, while Grover edged Riverside in a home run derby by a score of 4-3. David Cook won first prize in a Riverside horseshoe contest.

At Valley Road playground John Madden won first place in a dress-up contest, while the three Silvers, Florence, Lucy and Elizabeth, won all the prizes in a bubble gum contest. Jeff Sears won a bicycle race at Valley Road, while preparations were begun for the annual inter-playground field day.

At the High School playground Richie Volz won a chess tournament, Albert Spencer won a ping pong contest. Events for this week at the High School play area include a treasure hunt, a track meet and a hat show. Jean Schuler, Ann Rimalover and Betsy Nicholes won blue ribbons in the dress-up event at Marquand Park, while Joan Rimalover took first place in a checker tournament at the Marquand area.

Louis Salateraci won a ping pong tournament at the Grover Avenue playground last week, while Walter Scill defeated all comers in chess. Grover Avenue children also enjoyed a doggy roast last week.

An overflow crowd witnessed a circus at Erdman Avenue last week. The affair featured a clown act, a "fat lady," a puppet show, a fortune teller, throwing contests and "pink lemonade" for participants and the audience. After another week of softball rivalry, Valley Road still leads the league with a 4-1 record, while High School, Lugtowne and Riverside are all tied for the runner-up spot with 4-3 marks. Littlebrook, Grover and Harrison are trailing.

MEMBERSHIPS CLOSED

At Pike Brook Club Pool, Ralph E. Westervelt, president of the Pike Brook Country Club, announced this week that swimming pool memberships have been closed. The pool, which has been open since July 4, has reached its membership quota.

The president said that the club was still accepting golf memberships for families and individuals. A 6,300 yard, 72 course is currently under construction and will be ready for play next spring. The Pike Brook Club is located at the corner of Lime and Willow Roads.

Question of the Week

Question: Would it disturb you if Russia beat the United States in putting the first man in space?

Where Asked: Palmer Square.

Frederick Fraeichlich, Princeton Junction, office manager: It wouldn't bother me a bit. I don't care about this race for space. We may be second but our man would be alive and theirs wouldn't. Russia doesn't care about quality just as long as they can be first. They've proved that with their Sputniks—they beep but that's about all.

Mrs. Roscoe C. Williams, 99 Dempsey Avenue, housewife: Yes, I think it would. I want this country to be the strongest leader in the world and I feel this might undermine the confidence people in other countries have in the United States and its scientific abilities.

Joseph Perone, 242 Witherspoon Street, letter carrier: If it had any significant bearing on world problems, I would care. But if it meant just putting the first one to put a man in space, I wouldn't.

Samuel Sculerati Sr., 308 Linden Lane, taxi driver: No, I wouldn't like it. I don't think any foreign country, including Russia, should beat us in anything.

David H. Hopper, 59 Red Hill Road, assistant professor of religion, Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn.: I would feel very satisfied and proud if America were the first to do it, but it wouldn't disturb me if it weren't because I think the U.S. is still in the process of catching up. I believe that this country has already made great strides and that eventually it will not only catch Russia but will pass her in this field.

Mrs. David Coffin, 152 Guyot Avenue, housewife: No, if Russia has that much technical knowledge, I wouldn't begrudge its being first at all. I'd be lost in admiration. This doesn't mean I'm a Communist, but look at the amount of knowledge it takes to do such a thing! I certainly believe the United States would eventually be able to do the same.

Conrad Gutbrodt, 131 Mountain Avenue, plumbing contractor: It would, no end. It would be the opinion of the other countries, communistic ones especially, that Russia would be more reliable—as far as technical progress—than we were. In view of their achievement, I think a lot of countries would be more apt to gravitate toward Russia. It would give Russia short a great deal in space advance.

Carol Pettit, Ridgeway Road, research assistant on a student plan at NJNPI in Skillman: If Russia weren't going to dominate space as it has other countries and if it were willing to join the United States in space advancement, then I don't think it would bother me.

Eriz Hies, 46 Fisher Avenue, Officer, Boy Scouts of America: I imagine it would. It would be an indication that Russia is ahead of us in scientific achievements.

Mrs. John Fine, 112 Rollingmeade, teacher: No, I don't think it would because I, more or less, expect it. The reading I've done leads me to believe that they are a great deal ahead of us. In fact, one article I read said Russia has already put a man up but were unable to retrieve the space capsule. I'd like us to be sure that the man we send up will come back.

John H. Norris, 20 Lytle Street, Nassau Club janitor: I think so. It means they would be one step ahead of us. It may not be bad, but I don't trust them. They don't seem to want to play fair with us. I would rather have the U.S. be first. Who is it who doesn't want to be first if they can?

Miss Belinda Taylor, 34 Greenhouse Drive, mother's helper (English title): No, I don't think I would. I think it's a small matter, not nearly as important as some of the main issues that need to be done here in the world as we know it. The money we are spending to send a man into space could better be spent on the needy people in Chile, for example. There is no point in looking for trouble in space, for there is plenty of it right here.

Edward Stimpson, 461 Ewing Street, retired international chauffeur: No, it wouldn't disturb me because I think the United States would come back and do a better job soon afterwards.

Mrs. Milena Ueland, 26 Bank Street, interpreter, of Russian parentage, in this country from W. Germany since last October: Russia is a country that was suppressed for a long time, first by the Tartars and then by the Russian Orthodox Church which didn't allow any culture or science to bloom. Here they have the opportunity to show their strength.

UNIVERSITY LOANS RISE
Princeton Part of Trend. The use of loan funds is increasing sharply at the nation's universities in general, and at Princeton in specific, according to W. Bradford Craig, director of the Bureau of Student Aid at Princeton University. His report on the University's financial assistance programs shows an increase in loans of 35 percent in the past year, which is indicative of a national trend, he believes.

Mr. Craig has found through meetings with other institutions and talks with members of the College Scholarship Service (a subsidiary of the College Entrance Examination Board) that "it is evident that students are making increased use of loan funds to assist in meeting their college expenses." This situation applies to "colleges and universities throughout the United States" in addition to the Ivy League institutions, he explained.

At Princeton, loans have risen to $300,000 for next year, marking an increase of $18,000. In the same period, scholarships have risen by less than 3 percent, go-

VOLUNTEERS AD STAFF
At Princeton Hospital. A group of attractive young volunteers, known as "Candystrippers" because of their red and white striped uniforms, are adding a youthful note to the corridors of Princeton Hospital. While new to Princeton Hospital, the uniforms, sparkling fresh and complete with stripes, are used in many hospitals throughout the country and have given the Junior Volunteers their distinctive name.

According to Mrs. William L. Wilson, Chairman of the Volunteers, the teen-agers are not only adding a fresh note to the hospital scene, but they are performing an invaluable service as well. During summer months, many of the "regular" Volunteers who serve all year long are away on vacations, and the army of Junior Volunteers replaces them.

Most of them are students at Princeton High School or Miss Fine's School. Their duties are identical to those of the senior Volunteers. They man the information desk—no mean chore, since the desk is staffed from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., every day in the week; deliver newspapers, flowers and letters; handle the menu service and provide library service via a new mobile cart.

They also assist in Pediatrics, and their pert, young faces are particularly appreciated at Merwick, where they assist the Program Director in her arts program among the guests, as well as manning the Information Desk there, too. Mrs. Wilson has estimated that the Junior Volunteers work an average of 75 total hours per week which means they supply almost 1,600 hours of service during the summer months.

As in the case of the senior Volunteers, the value of their service to the hospital cannot be estimated. On the other hand, as one of the "Candystrippers" remarked, "It does something for me, too. It's not only fun, but I also like to think that I am helping even in a small way."

Among the most active Junior Volunteers this summer are: Pa-their intelligence, and their ability. And I think they will.

Robert H. Smith, Trenton elevator maintenance man: I don't think we can always be first in everything. Russia, being a dictatorship, can put its entire effort behind a single project if it so chooses. The U.S. has a much more diversified program. I don't think it would amount to much if the Russians were the first. They'd make a lot of propaganda out of it but, in the long run, they'll never catch up to us.

Miss Ann Lyons, 242 Moore Street, secretary: There has been so much of an overemphasis placed on the "race" of who gets there first that I can't appreciate the significance of whether Russia gets there first or we do.

Joseph Sweney, 8 Dickinson Street, proctor: No, I don't think so. I don't think it is that important. At least it wouldn't disturb me. I doubt if they'll beat us anyway.

Mrs. Edith Shadovitz, Roosevelt, clerk: No, I don't believe it would disturb me. It would show they are ahead of us but I imagine we would work twice as hard to do the same. The fact that one country gets a man up first isn't important. The important thing is that we should try to get along with the Russians and try to work things out along diplomatic levels and not try to think of things in terms of who does such and such first.

vit, which requires students who obtain money to sign an oath declaring that they have never been members of any subversive organization, Princeton, Harvard, Yale and several other universities do not subscribe to the program.

"We at Princeton will definitely apply for loans under the program if the affidavit clause is repealed," Mr. Craig indicated. A bill is before Congress which would abolish this section of the act.

Mr. Craig also noted that the total value of scholarships, loans and earnings from work opportunities provided by the Bureau of Student Aid will exceed $1.5 million, a record figure for the University. Besides the $875,000 in scholarships and $300,000 in loans, it is expected that the undergraduates enrolled with the Bureau of Student Aid will earn about $250,000.

Incoming freshmen will receive $283,000 of the total, representing the largest amount ever given to the members of entering Princeton class. "The number of applicants not only increased for the Class of 1964, but the percentage of those requesting financial aid increased more than proportionately," Mr. Craig pointed out. Almost 50 percent of the class will need some form of assistance, a figure seven percent over that for 1959-60, he explained.

Requirements Noted. Students receiving scholarships at Princeton must maintain a scholastic standing which shows they are making the best use of their abilities. They are expected to help meet a portion of their expenses by part-time student employment during the college terms and vacation periods.

Tuition loans are granted to students not qualifying for scholarships or needing additional —Continued on Page 18

They may borrow up to $3000 during four years at the University.

For students going into teaching or the ministry, the University has a special incentive program which provides a type of rebate on the loans. Students may apply for a 20 percent reduction of the outstanding amount after one year of full-time service in their profession, and may continue to apply for a similar annual reduction for a total of four years, making a total rebate of 80 percent of the loan.

NEW LOCATION SOUGHT By Princeton Red Cross. The Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross is actively engaged in searching for new quarters. The organization, which occupies its present building on University Place through the generosity of Princeton University, needs a minimum of 3000 square feet for offices, training and storage space.

Since available funds for the purchase of a suitable building are limited, the board of directors is looking for a Princeton resident who would be willing to donate property, in view of the tax benefits, or would consider a partial donation with cash received plus a tax saving value to the property's market value. The Red Cross points out that the University's expansion could include its building, and that the space is inadequate for the proper administration of Red Cross volunteer services, which are available to an increasing number of people in Princeton and adjacent communities.

Any information on properties available for sale or donation should be given to the board of directors.

By New Women's Club. The newly-formed Women's Club of Princeton will accept applications for charter memberships until September 1. Those interested in joining should call Mrs. Richard D. Challenor, membership chairman, at WA 1-6466. John L. McKee, corresponding secretary for applications, at WA 4-1911.

The club has been organized to promote community welfare through civic, educational and philanthropic activities. A tea to honor new members will be held Friday, September 16 at Mrs. Challenor's home, 45 Knoll Drive. Mrs. Norman D. Kelley is president of the club.

The first meeting of the season is scheduled for Thursday, September 22, at 1 p.m. at the Nassau Inn. Mrs. H. L. Dangrenmond, president of the New Jersey Federated Women's Clubs, will speak on "The Story of the Collect." Mrs. John M. Brown of 66 Cedar Lane is program chairman.

The third Thursday of each month at 1 p.m. has been selected as the regular meeting time. Two additional luncheon meetings will be held during the year. VARIED PROGRAM PLANNED By Community Band. The Princeton Community Band's third concert of the season will be given this Friday evening at 7 in front of Nassau Hall. Richard Gerstenberger is the conductor. The program will include Rimsky-Korsakov's "Procession of Nobles," Liszt's "Les Preludes," —Continued on Page 19

Report from THE MAYOR

Assessment News: The spotlight should be focussed on assessment practice throughout New Jersey during the coming months. New legislation, Chapter 51 of the Laws of 1960, provides for many changes in assessment policy, and municipal officials are studying the new law for its impact on their communities.

One decision that must be made by local governing bodies relates to household personal property. Municipality may, by ordinance, determine not to tax such property. If it retains the tax, those valuations will not be included in the computations for the apportionment of county costs of government.

These and other provisions of a new and complicated law may well mean some shifts in the tax burden. They will certainly mean much extra work and study on the part of municipal officials, especially the local assessors.

Advanced Courses. As preparation for this, our own Borough Assessor attended the 1960 Conference for Assessing Officers for five days at Rutgers. The assessor received for presentation to Assessor Edward G. Warren a certificate signifying satisfactory completion of the advanced program.

On July 1, Ed Warren began the new term of office for which he was elected last November. Mayor and Council have under serious consideration a proposal to increase the status of this key position to fulltime in recognition of the growing importance and complexity of the duties and responsibilities of that office.

From the Meters. Receipts from Borough parking meters for the first seven months of 1960 totalled $10,716.41—an increase of $1,019.68 over the 1959 figures for the same period. The Borough's investment in parking facilities would be increased if agreement can be reached on a proper method of financing the development in the Vanoverton-Park-Nassau area of off-street facilities as worked out with property owners in the affected area and reflected in some engineering alternatives worked out by the Borough staff.

Nothing To Sneez At. Several Borough residents have asked that attention be called to the ragweed season and the advisability of cutting down the weeds that cause so much discomfort. A drive around town shows a number of areas where vacant lots or unowned sections are ready to cause annoyance unless prompt action is taken.

Zoning. Members of the Planning Board have some complicated homework sent to them by consultant planner Dodd McHugh. In ten technical pages of a special memorandum on the subject, Mr. McHugh discusses four types of revisions. A draft of proposed zoning amendments is part of the consultant's contract.

"Tell It To The Mayor!" The regular weekly open house sessions will be held on Friday, August 12, and Friday, August 19, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Last week's calendar included a pleasant afternoon as guest of Engine Company No. 3 whose annual outing was under the chairmanship of Borough Clerk Bob Mooney.

ANOTHER SHOPPING CENTER

Hilton Pushes Route 206 Area. Another shopping center, this one located on Route 206 just into Montgomery Township, is taking shape. Being developed by the Hilton Realty Company, it already claims one 12,000 square foot building, with three or four more in the advanced planning stage.

As envisaged by George M. Sands, president of Hilton, the "206 Center" will take up some 600 feet of the 1950 feet of frontage owned by the firm opposite the Princeton Airport. It will include, in addition to the completed two-story building, an office building, a second 12,000 square foot commercial building, a supermarket and, possibly, a bowling alley.

Although the office building and the second building for eight stores are definitely planned, the supermarket is as yet uncertain. Negotiations are underway with a large chain-store organization for a 30,000 square foot building, according to Mr. Sands.

The already finished commercial building will house eight stores on the first floor, with 6,000 square feet of office space on the second. Tenants signed up for the first floor include Lenhart and Company, an advertising agency; Punnett Sales, a computer and places firm; Helbig Sienderella Studios; 206 Television Service; Dewey's Fabric Center; 206 Hardware Center and Perone Garden Supply Center.

In addition to the 30-acre lot on which the shopping center will be located, Hilton owns a 375-acre piece of land on the corner of Route 206 and the Rocky Hill-Blawenburg Road. Two research firms are interested in occupying part of the property, with one planning a 20,000 square foot installation and the other a 50,000-square foot operation, Mr. Sands revealed.

TRAVEL AGENCY OPENED. By Hoyt Brothers, "As a business, it is a happy business. Only a minute percentage who travel do so for untappy reasons."

Clearly content to be part of this happy business is Richard D. Hoyt of 99 Poe Road who, with his brother, Oakley F. Hoyt of 14 Knoll Drive, has established Princeton's new travel agency, Travex, Inc. The independent firm is located in Thompson Court at the rear of 195 Nassau Street.

As new as the agency itself are its offices, which consists of one, large, 18 x 20 room and two smaller consultation rooms. Three trained staff members with experience in ticketing and scheduling will serve the public.

In discussing his new business venture, Richard Hoyt said that the main commodity he has to sell is service. "Any travel agent," he said, "is a bureau that provides service for a client, a service that does not cost a cent." The absence of any cost is made possible through the air, land and sea carriers which desire to cooperate in the commissions, with travel agents who lessen their lead in dealing with the individual.

Factors Change Rapidly. It is a matter of placing between the customer and the carriers a professional who uses his experience to eliminate details for the traveler. In the extremely fluid business, one in which rates, time tables and air flights can change from week to week and even day to day, the travel agent is the one who "answers the questions."

"A good travel agent doesn't pretend to know all the answers," Mr. Hoyt continued. "But a good agent will be able to get the answer to any question quickly and accurately. No matter what the mode of travel, the agent provides one-stop service. He is the final clearing house for the customer's conglomeration of requirements," Mr. Hoyt pointed out.

Mr. Hoyt further described travel as a clean-cut, forward business in which imagination can lend a hand through suggestion. "It isn't so much a matter of creative imagination," he said, "as it is an awareness of what is available. People are interested in travel if they can be told how to do it. The more I get into the details of the business," he concluded, "the more I realize it is possible to have what is truly a fabulous vacation for a nominal, practical cost."

Mr. Hoyt became interested in travel when, as vice-president and sales manager for a company he and his brother founded in 1955—one that blossomed from nothing into a firm which did an annual volume of $5 million before they sold it last year to a large corporation—he handled the travel accommodations and tickets for sales meetings held by the company. In the last four years, he traveled over 250,000 miles. The organizational work involved in making these travel arrangements, many times dealing directly with travel agencies, gave him an insight into what is involved.

Oakley Hoyt is a chemical engineering graduate from the University of Pennsylvania. Richard Hoyt is a graduate of Gettysburg College and attended the University of Friburg, Switzerland, and Temple University. Both have traveled extensively throughout their lives and both are impressed with the opportunities available for economic travel, nationally and internationally.

$500,000 EXPANSION SET

For Rockwell Manufacturing. A two-story, 30,000 square-foot addition to its present building has been announced by Rockwell Manufacturing Company, Hamilton Avenue, Hopewell. The expansion is valued at $500,000, with completion planned for early next year, Richard J. Chorlton is architect for the project.

The Hopewell division, which produces service cocks, meter registers and machined meter components for other Rockwell products, now occupies a 73,000-square-foot building. There are other plant sites in this country and Canada.

The present Hopewell plant was founded by Hugh A. Smith in 1902 as the Smith Novelty Company. It manufactured mechanical novelties powered by spring wound motors. The Smith Company was acquired by Rockwell in 1929.

H. S. Rockwell, the present plant manager, has been there since that time, and is the oldest, Rockwell manager in terms of service.

pension last week by W. F. Rockwell Jr., president of the division. The Rev. John F. Thompson, pastor of the St. Alphonsus Church in Hopewell, gave the invocation, and the Rev. William J. Hayes, former pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church in Hopewell, pronounced the benediction.

SCIENCE In Princeton

FLYING DOWN THE SHED

Models Tested at Forrestal. The aim of the small boy who tries to let his model plane fly by itself but still hold onto it is being approached by scientists at the James Forrestal Research Center on Route 1. They have at least halfway achieved their goal in a unique 760-foot long shed.

Scale models of helicopters and other vertical take off aircraft can be flown the length of the huge (30 feet high and 30 feet wide) shed while an attached mechanical "arm" follows them. The arm permits the models to move freely up and down, fly forward or pitch about a central pivot point.

This has been accomplished after a two-year development program. Now the scientists hope to refine the facility to the point where it will allow the models complete freedom, permitting them to roll, yaw and move from side to side.

As it is, the test apparatus is the only one of its type in the world, according to Prof. Alexander A. Nikolsky, director of the project. Up to now, the closest the scientists have come to the goal of free followed flight is by flying models mounted on top of trucks.

"The major contribution the tests on the 760-foot track can make will be in the form of knowledge about how stable various models of aircraft will be when flying under their own power," Prof. Nikolsky explained. "We consider that this facility is of the utmost importance to the development of vertical take-off aircraft."

Like a wind tunnel, the semi-free flight testing of models is both cheaper and safer than making trial runs with full-scale, piloted aircraft. Unlike the wind tunnel, however, the track permits the model to fly under its own power, while at the same time providing a "frame of reference" which gives exact information on the position, angle and speed of the aircraft.

Servo Principle Used. Using the test facility involves attaching the model to the arm, setting the controls of the model and starting its motor (an electric motor is used, since the model is never completely free). The arm then follows the model by a type of servomechanism, so that whenever the model exerts a pull forward or back, up or down, this is immediately sensed and a motor moves the arm to cancel out the pull, allowing the model virtually free motion in those directions.

One of the advantages of the track is safety; it won't let the model crash because the arm only permits 7 feet of vertical motion or 760 feet of horizontal motion. Also, as the model nears the end of the track, a braking mechanism automatically goes into operation to prevent jarring steps.

Used in the tests are one-fifth and one-sixth scale models weighing about 25 pounds and costing approximately $50,000 to construct. They are "dynamically similar" to full-scale craft so that they will have essentially the same characteristics as the actual aircraft.

To date, the team of scientists under Prof. Nikolsky has tested only two flying machines, both models of full-scale craft which have been thoroughly tried in actual flight so that the performance of the models and the test track may be compared to the real thing. Already tested have been models of a Sikorsky S55 helicopter and a Vertol Model 76 tilt-wing vertical take-off aircraft.

Next, the group will "fly" a model of the "flying saucer" or ground-effect aircraft which is being developed at Forrestal.

Data Recorded on Tape. Information on the model's speed, position, etc., is transmitted to a bank of electronic instruments in the control room, where it is both recorded graphically and on magnetic tape. When the shed is used the model is locked in position and "flown" the length, information on the strains in the aircraft can be recorded by the equipment.

An actual test requires three men and about two or three days. Although in the future models will be tested at a greater rate than in the past, the scientists will spend part of their time increasing the amount of freedom permitted the models.

Working under Prof. Nikolsky and directly overseeing the project is H. C. Carls. Others participating include Esteban Martinez, W. F. Putman and Theodore Dukas.

The test facility, which cost about $200,000, was developed under the sponsorship of both the Army and Air Branch of the Office of Naval Research. At present the project is supported by the Army's Transportation Research Command (TRECUM).

40-TON DEVICE HAULED
To Wrong Lane of Route 1. An 80-ton nuclear research device, worth $500,000, was hauled for nearly half a mile in the wrong lane of U.S. Route 1 last week. The device, a 20-foot long transformer choke bound for the Forrestal Research Center, was cautiously carried aboard a special 58-foot flat-bed trailer truck for five miles from the Monmouth Junction railroad where it had arrived earlier in the week.

Because the length of the trailer prohibited a normal turn from the federal highway onto Forrestal property, state police closed the northbound lane to allow the vehicle to travel south in the wrong lane for a distance of half a mile. The five-mile trip from

Attendance Report

Average attendance for Ivy League football teams varied last fall all the way from 36,000 to 8,000.

The top figure is credited to Yale, which drew an average of 36,000 to the Bowl in 1959. At the other end of the ladder are Columbia and Brown, which reported an average of slightly better than 8,000 for their home games.

Princeton was second to Yale, drawing some 27,000 persons to each of its Palmer Stadium contests. In order thereafter were Pennsylvania, 23,000; Harvard, 16,000; Cornell and Dartmouth, 10,000 each.

Yale picked up all the marbles in 1956, the first year in which every Ivy member played the other seven. The following fall, Dick Colman piloted Princeton to the title. In 1966, it was Dartmouth; last fall, Penn won it; this year, Harvard is the pre-season pick.

Actually, what unanimity exists is built around the first, seventh and eighth place finishes. Harvard is generally selected to win this season; Columbia is figured to wind up seventh and no one entertains thoughts of Brown's graduation-riddled squad coming in anywhere but last.

In between, the estimates vary widely. One of the football annuals, the gaudy-jacketed magazines which make their appearance in August after being prepared for publication in mid-spring, sees defending champion Penn and perennially powerful Dartmouth both finishing out of first division. Belief is that the Quakers will take long enough to learn the single wing under John Stierman so that fifth place is the best they can hope to achieve. Dartmouth's heavy graduation losses — nine of 11 starters, including ace quarterback Bill Gundy — are figured to plummet the Indians all the way to sixth.

IT'S CALLED A "CHOKO," AND WEIGHS 80 TONS: This piece of research equipment caused numerous transportation problems last week when it was moved from a siding at Monmouth Junction five miles to the Forrestal Research Center on Route 1. (See "Science in Princeton.")

Monmouth Junction to the research center took nearly two and a half hours, and two workmen perched atop the 12-foot in diameter choke labored constantly with poles to divert overhanging tree limbs and low-hanging telegraph wires.

The transformer choke will play a central role in the magnetic power supply system of the Princeton - Pennsylvania Accelerator, an $11,000,000 atomic research project financed largely by the Atomic Energy Commission. When the accelerator is completed in 1961 it is expected to aid physicists in basic research aimed at determining the structure of atomic particles.

Railroad officials said the choke was the largest and heaviest piece of equipment ever to arrive at the Monmouth siding. It was so large that a portion of the roof of a freight shed which stands beside the track had to be cut away by workmen in order to give the device clearance to pull into the siding.

a special all-star game between the League's champions, the Princeton Water Company, and a team composed of standout players from the remaining three entrants, it was announced by Bernard E. Bergesen, Jr., Y Baseball Commissioner. The game, in which the public is invited, will be played Monday evening at 6:15 at Princeton High School.

With the final games to be played Thursday and Friday, the Water Company enjoys an insurmountable 8-1 record over second place Matthews, which is 5-3. The league leaders fattened their first place bulge with a pair of victories over last place Nassau Oil, 13-1 and 2-0. In other games, Matthews topped Bowers, 7-5, and shut out Nassau Oil, 9-0, which in turn, won its third game by beating Bowers, 8-2.

A combination of hitting, good fielding and the fine pitching of Vince McCord brought the Water Company its championship. The victors have been managed by Horace "Bud" Boynton and Glen Lengnick. Team players include John Pietriferro, Raymond Panticaro, Robert Eucanfin, Thomas Stemmler, Vincent McCord, Anthony Cilelli, Donald Cooney, Jeff Serris, Charles Goeke, Alphonse Proccelli, Lo Gordon, Thomas Sculerail and Francis Petrone.

LUTHERAN CHURCH TO OPEN
In Kendall Park Sept. 18, a new United Lutheran Church serving greater Franklin Park area will begin its worship services September 18. The church is being organized by the Rev. Dwight A. Huseman, a 1960 graduate of the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia.

Named the Christ the King Lutheran Church, it will use the auditorium of the Phillips School on Route 27. According to the Rev. Mr. Huseman, plans are being made for the construction of a temporary portable altar, pulpit and altar rail.

The pastor of the new church is spending the summer culling upon interested people in the area, working from the parsonage on Franklin Park Road at Elm Street. He is being assisted by Mrs. Charles A. Wiggs of 27 Palmer Road, Kendall Park, who is acting secretary of the new church and chairman of the secretarial committee.

The initial service is scheduled for 10:45 a.m., with 11 a.m. the regular time of worship thereafter. Sunday Church School will be held at 9:30 a.m., beginning October 2.

The school will be built around the theme "Love Your Neighbor." Study, music, refreshments and play will be offered each morning.

Teachers include Mrs. Carol Stoy, Mrs. Carol Davies, Edward Wojtkowski, Mrs. Arlene Succop, Mrs. Peggy Friend, Mrs. Manet Behrend and Mrs. Virginia Reitze. The church's two pastors, the Rev. Harold Remus and the Rev. Dr. Richard Luecke, will also assist with the school.

PLAYOFF SCHEDULED
After First-place Tie, A playoff to decide a first-place deadlock in the Men's Softball League has been scheduled for this Thursday between Plainsboro and the Sportsmen. The contest will be played on one of the diamonds just east of Baker Park.

The tie occurred following a pair of victories by the Sportsmen in their last two contests, triumphs which enabled them to match Plainsboro's record of 19 and 8. After taking a 7-0 forfeit last week from Leo's Rural Service, the Sportsmen ended Circle Esso on Tuesday, 4-6.

The losers held a 4-3 margin after three innings, but the Sportsmen drew even in the fifth and then collected four in the top of the seventh to earn the decision. Harry Kahny was the winner on a 12-in. barrage.

Green Gables and Saninone's are the other two teams which will participate in the playoffs scheduled to start next Tuesday, following the decision to be reached this Thursday. The first and third-place teams and second and fourth-place entries will meet in a best-of-three series preliminary to the final round.

CLIMAX NEARS

Tri-County Schedules Playoffs. The Princeton Athletic Club will play two games in the next four days, ending the regular season before playoffs start in the Tri-County Baseball League. South Brunswick will be at Harris Field this Thursday at 6:15, with Hightstown on hand Sunday at 5:30 for a make-up contest.

Playoffs will begin Tuesday, with last-place Princeton scheduled to meet the second-place entry, either South Brunswick or Hightstown-Cranbury. PAC tied the latter team Thursday, 2-2, as manager Steve Hogarty stole home to earn a deadlock in the darkness-curtailed contest.

PLAYOFFS UNDERWAY

In Police Youth League, Playoffs between the first four teams in the Police Youth League started Monday. The second and third place and the first and fourth place teams will play a best-of-three series with the winners meeting for the championship.

In the opening playoff games, fourth place Engine Co. No. 1 shaded the League champions, Engine Co. No. 3, 7 to 6, behind the fire relief hurling of Skitch Donald. Pitcher Tony Pirone of second-place Post 76 tossed a three-hitter at the third-place Sportsmen for a 4-2 victory.

In the final week of regular play, Engine Co. No. 1 won first place for the second straight year, by shutting out the cellar-dwelling Hook & Ladder, 2-0. Albie Tolo pitched a no-hit game for the winners while losing pitcher Coley Donaldson gave up only four hits. In other contests, the Sportsmen clinched a playoff position by trouncing the Eagles, 10-5 and Post 76 strengthened its hold on second place through the good relief pitching of Joe Golden as it topped Engine Co. No. 1, 10-4.

BENEFIT GAME PLANNED

To Aid Retarded Children. Princeton Post 76, American Legion, has pledged itself to the County Legion's program to help raise funds for the construction of a playground and safety fencing area for the Retarded Children's school on Fairmont Avenue, Trenton. To raise funds for the playground Commander Henry J. Frank has announced that a baseball game between the New York Yankee Rookie team and on All-Star contingent of all the County Legion Junior Baseball Leagues will be held.

Scheduled for Hetzel Field in Trenton on Monday, the game's proceeds will be used for paying for the school project. Post 76 has two players representing it on the benefit squad. They are outfielder Richard Olsen and second-sacker Boyd Bergen.

Commander Frank also announced that tickets for the game may be obtained from any member of the Post 76 Junior baseball squad or Midget League team, or at the Post home Wednesday through Saturday evenings. Tickets may also be procured by mailing a check to Legion Baseball, 46 Cedar Lane, Princeton. Checks should be made out to Princeton Post 76.

If tickets are not desired, donors are requested to mark "NO TICKETS" on the check. In the event the Post will see that some worthy child will attend in the donor's stead. In this manner, contributions are tax deductible.
